

The Fidato Group Announces Course on Retirement Financial Planning at Lorain County Community College

Tony D'Amico, Company CEO, Offers Two-session course Retirement Planning Today

STRONGVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 7, 2015 /PRNewswire-iReach/ -- The Fidato Group announced an educational course later this month, titled Retirement Planning Today®, which will be led by Founder and CEO, Tony D'Amico and held at Lorain County Community College. "Retirement planning has taken on a much greater importance as people are living longer and retiring earlier. Many view retirement as a new and fulfilling chapter to their life," D'Amico said.

During this two-session course, students will learn how to define retirement goals and identify practical information that they can apply immediately in their personal lives. This educational course covers the complete planning process, including life planning for retirement, determining retirement needs and expenses, income planning, risk management, asset protection, estate planning, and strategies to manage investment risks. Students will also hear how to invest in and take money out of their company's retirement plan, use tax laws to their advantage, and determine the savings they will need to retire today or in the future. "Whether you are planning for retirement or already retired, this course will help to ensure you are on the right track," D'Amico said. The first of four two-session courses starts on January 28.

"We're pleased that Mr. D'Amico will be presenting these courses at both our main campus in Elyria and at LCCC Midpoint Campus Center in Brunswick. This will be a great opportunity for members of our communities to learn about the important aspects of retirement planning, and attend a course that is beneficial to our communities through the Center for LifeLong Learning," according to Jennifer Krupa, Program Coordinator Center for Lifelong Learning at Lorain County Community College. Class sizes are limited. Students may bring a spouse or a guest at no additional charge. The tuition includes one 235-page workbook.
